

Working With DDL

Workbook

Answer the following

1. The _____ statements are used to define the database structure or schema.
2. Semicolon at the end of each SQL statement will terminate the SQL statement [True / False]
3. SQL is not case insensitive [True / False]
4. SQL is the standard language for _____ database systems.
5. _____ command is used to retrieve data from database.
6. _____ commands that allow the user to manage database transactions.
7. _____ are used to specify rules for the data in a table.
8. The _____ means hiding implementation details (i.e. high level details) from end user.
9. How many levels of data abstraction is there? _____
10. _____ is the problem of storing the same data item in more than one place.
11. The _____ level of abstraction describes only part of entire database.
12. Write any two DDL commands _____
13. The _____ are used to maintain the Data Integrity